

This policy reflects Ridley's commitment to seek to protect against all forms of modern slavery and serious exploitation including forced, compulsory, or trafficked labour, or anyone held in slavery or servitude – both within our organisation, or as part of our supply chain, within the countries in which we operate.

Our commitment includes seeking to educate and influence those in our supply chain so as to reduce the risk of modern slavery taking place in their own operations. We expect service providers, suppliers and contractors to share the commitment to act lawfully and ethically and to work to ensure that modern slavery is not taking place within their own organisations or supply chains.

This Policy applies to the Ridley Group of companies and participants in our supply chain.

Modern Slavery describes situations where coercion, threats or deception are used to exploit victims and undermine their freedom. Coercion, threats and deception can be explicit or implicit.

Forms of Modern Slavery include trafficking in persons, slavery, servitude, forced marriage, using forced labour in the performance of any work, debt bondage, deceptive recruitment for labour or services and the worst forms of child labour means extreme forms of child labour including enslavement or exposure to dangerous work.
